electrolytic interrupter (Elect.) a current interrupter consisting of a cell with two electrodes which is immersed in an electrolyte such that the passage of current through the cell causes bubbles to form in the electrolyte, the bubbles breaking the circuit. 【電】電解斷續器。 electromagnetic field the field created by the interplay of an electric field and a magnetic field when an electric current passes through a wire. 電磁場。 electromagnetic induction the production of an electromotive force in a circuit by variation of the magnetic field with which the circuit is connected. 電磁感應。 electromagnetic radiation the passage of energy through space or through material substances by electromagnetic waves. 電磁輻射。 electromagnetic wave a wave of electric and magnetic energy generated when an electric charge oscillates or is accelerated. Electromagnetic waves are light waves, radio waves, etc., according to their frequency. 電磁波。 electromotive force (Elect.) the energy available for conversion from nonelectric to electric form, or vice versa, per unit of charge passing through the source of the energy; the potential difference between the terminals of a source of electrical energy: expressed in volts. 【電】電動勢。alternating electromotive force. 交變電動勢。

electron beam a stream of electrons moving in the same direction and with the same velocity. 電子注。 electron cloud (in a vacuum tube) the area between the electrodes which contains a great number of relatively stationary electrons. 電子雲。 electron diffraction the diffraction of electrons when they pass through crystalline matter, useful in the study of the structure of materials. 電子衍射；電子繞射。 electron gun (Tele) the cathode in a cathode ray tube which emits electrons, and the surrounding electrostatic or electromagnetic apparatus which controls and focuses the electron stream. 【電視】電子槍。 electron lens the electrodes or conductors which set up electric or magnetic fields by which a beam of electrons can be focused as light rays are by an optical lens. 電子透鏡。 electron micrograph the photograph or image of an object under an electron microscope. 電子顯微鏡下物體之現象或照片。 electron microscope a microscope that uses beams of electrons (focused with an electron lens) instead of beams of light, and has much higher resolving power than any ordinary microscope. Its enlarged images are not observable directly by the eye, but are projected upon a fluorescent surface or photographic plate. 電子顯微鏡。 electron microscopist a person skilled in the use of the electron microscope. 電子顯微鏡使用者。 electron multiplier a vacuum tube that amplifies a current by a series of accelerations and secondary emissions of electrons. 電子倍增器。 electron tube a vacuum tube. 眞空管；電子管。 electron volt a unit of energy, equal to the energy gained by an electron when acted upon by a potential difference of one volt. 電子伏(特)。 electronic brain a complex electronic computer, usually of the digital type, as ENIAC; electric brain. (構造複雜之)電子計算機；電腦。 electronic computer 見 electronic brain.

electronic music music created by various electronic generators and filters and usually recorded on tape and edited to form musical compositions. 電子音樂。 electrostatic field an electric field produced by electric charges which are stationary or at rest. 靜電場。 electrostatic induction the production of an electric charge in a body by the influence of another body that is charged with electricity; electric induction. 靜電感應。 electrostatic unit (Elect.) a unit, as a statampere, in the system of electric units derived from the force of repulsion between two static charges. 【電】靜電系單位。(略作 esu, ESU) elegiac verse (Pros.) a verse peculiar to elegy; verse consisting of alternative hexameters and pentameters. 輓詩體。 element, be in one's element be where one can live and thrive. 得其所哉；如魚得水。He's in his element when taking part in a political debate. 他參加政治辯論時，眞是得其所哉。Whenever the discussion touches on music, Grace is right in her element. 討論一觸及音樂，葛瑞斯就覺得到了她的本行。
